The Children's Revolution has begun!

Synopsis

In the heart of a slum in Mumbai, India, a group of children are working together, trying to build a global network with one goal: to change the world. Facing extraordinary challenges including poverty, displacement and prejudice they are using social media, online radios and web channels to cover stories and connect with other countries.

Filmed in 15 countries Child of Nature presents the new generation as leaders of human awakening whose stories of courage, hope and generosity will both amaze the mind and touch the heart.

A call for unity is rising and pioneering kids from all races, cultures, and social classes are claiming their power, raising their voices and bringing a new worldview of unity and celebration.

It's happening everywhere. It's happening now.

The Children's Revolution has begun!
